Settle MTO road bill

Controversy over the MTO road situation ended Monday when county supervisors accepted an offer of $410,000 by Walter Mussell, chief of the real estate division, Corps of Engineers, Mobile, to build or improve county roads outside the MTO area in lieu of roads to be taken over in the fee area.

Supervisors also set a 10-ton load limit for trucks on county roads, effect of which it is believed will be to cause contractors moving heavy trucks and equipment to bear some of the maintenance cost of roads in the buffer zone.

The board had asked for $1,290,000 for reimbursement of about 43 miles of roads in the entire area but Mussell said the Corps would only approve payment for roads in the fee area, amounting to about 12 miles.

Both groups went into executive session after Mussell offered $375,000, board attorney Lucien M. Gex asking if the Corps had any "latitude" to work with to which Mussell replied "very little."

Supervisors asked for an executive session shortly after 11 a.m. and opened the doors 15 minutes later. They made a counter-proposal of $425,000 and Mussell asked for an executive session following which he made the accepted offer of $410,000.

Charges of "horse-trading" were denied by Mussell who said he was more or less acting as go-between for NASA and Hancock County. A humorous note was added when Beat 1 supervisor Harlan Dean said "you mean you didn't bring the money with you?" negotiations having been under way for more than a year.

Mussell asked supervisors to prepare a "package" containing descriptions of roads to be built or improved with the money saying he could then draw up the contract and the county could expect payment of 50 per cent of the total amount, the balance to be paid in progress payments as work progressed.

Board president R. G. Hubbard, Jr., said he thought the board had made a "good deal" recalling that early opinion was that the county would get nothing.

A stipulation in the proposed contract is for the county to abandon the estimated 12 miles of roads in the fee area, Mussell saying they would take over maintenance in the 60 or 90 day period before abandonment of the roads if the county could give some kind of title necessary before government work could be done. Gex quoted a statute stating that "the board shall have full jurisdiction" but it had the power to close the roads and Dean noted supervisors had already voted to close the roads in question at their discretion.

Successful conclusion to the situation came only after hours of reshaping questions and complaints and threats of taking the matter to court and rebuttal by Mussell.

County engineers were busy this week preparing descriptions of roads to be abandoned and roads to be built as requested by Mussell who asked for detailed information as to where culverts, etc., would be placed saying he was not interested in cost of improvements.

Hubbard noted that although it was a satisfactory settlement, there would not be enough money to build roads up to state aid specifications.

Sheriff warns will check on permits, tags

Sheriff Sylvan Lader told the Echo Wednesday that his deputies would start operating road blocks this weekend to check on operator's permits and automobile license plates. Sporadically, the highway patrol recently has been checking driver's permits with road blocks.

Waveland votes 'go' for sewerage survey

Waveland Town Council flashed the go-ahead signal for a sewerage system at a special meeting Monday night when it authorized an application to the federal Housing and Home Finance Agency for a $6,800 planning grant for the program and entered a contract with its consulting engineer, B. M. Dornblatt and Associates of New Orleans, to handle the necessary engineering services.

Mayor Garfield Lader signed the documents and Clerk C. O. Dufour attested them at once so Dornblatt could speed the money application on its way to Atlanta and Washington.

As soon as that is approved—in not less than six weeks probably—Dornblatt told the aldermen he would be ready to proceed with the survey and expected to be able to work well ahead of the time schedule he was submitting in the loan application. HHFA approval requires the preliminary study to be accepted within 60 days. With the town smoothing the way in getting health board approval, easements, right of way and the like, Dornblatt predicted actual construction can be under way by July, 1965.

Possibility of holding the necessary bond election to finance the improvement at the same time as the November presidential balloting was discussed to save managers' costs.

The system is presently estimated to cost about $856,105 but Dornblatt cautioned the study may well revise it. For example, he said, whether a lagoon for sewerage treatment or a treatment plant will best suit the town is a question to be determined, as well as projection for future growth.

Dufour, who also is town assessor, questioned Dornblatt and attorney Dan M. Russell, Jr., closely about how assessment for sewer installation would be made and by whom and what to do about people with

MTO welcomes dust, skeeters

There'll be few complaints about dust or mosquitos at Mississippi Test Operations from those assigned the task of constructing the $500 million NASA test installation for the next few weeks at any rate.

That was the word Wednesday from J. K. Glennon, press briefing officer for the Corps of Engineers at the site, as he reported the start of construction on four contracts recently let and plenty of activity since the winter rain has abated. Heavy rains have been absorbed amazingly well and there is now plenty of dust in the area of the two test stands while mosquitos which made life miserable for workers last summer are beginning to appear again.

Work force is now 774, only a slight gain from last week but it should be well up next week if things continue to go well. Contractor personnel count is 452 and the Corps has 124 men now.

Chaney and James has started driving test pilings for the $3,801,146 booster storage facility it will erect east of Rt. 32 almost opposite the lock. Farrell Construction Co. has started clearing for its $2,401,000 job on construction of the main canal around the test stands. Dredging has been in progress about 10 days on the approach channel and East Pearl River for which Sabine Dredging Co. has the $447,528 contract and Carlos Well Works has begun work on the two portable water wells which will cost $77,772.

Bids on the water pressure facility, scheduled for opening Tuesday, have been postponed until March 19.

Call election on JP vacancy

May 2 was set as the date for a special election to fill the vacancy caused by death of Peter Chiniche, Beat 5 No. 1 Justice of the peace, at a meeting of the county board of supervisors last Thursday.

Chiniche took office Jan. 6 and died of a heart ailment Feb. 14.

In other action Beat 4 supervisor James Necaise moved for an interim transfer of $10,000 to repay a loan made recently from the Road and Bridge Bond Fund to the Beat 4 maintenance fund all members approving.

Nursing home burns in holiday outing

The new Easter clothing she had bought a few days earlier for the six out-patients from the Veterans Administration Hospital who stay at her nursing home, plus a box of their clothing to be mended were saved.

Mrs. Charles Lewis who lives across the street said neighbors noticed smoke pouring out from under the tin roof shortly after 10 a.m. and tried to locate Mrs. Cuevas. That failing, they called the fire department and the Waveland volunteer unit arrived about 10:45 a.m.

Kenny Fayard, chief of the volunteer company, said the roof on the 60-year-old frame dwelling already had caved in by the time he arrived but after pouring water on the flames from the fish pond in the front garden for about an hour and 15 minutes it appeared the fire might be brought under control in spite of everything.

Then occurred the big calamity in the eyes of the 15 volunteers and neighbors on the scene. A vapor block developed in the gasoline line running the pump, according to Fireman Robert Lucas, so that neither the pond nor the two artesian wells behind the house could be used and the blaze regained its strength.

The forestry department's crew from Rocky Hill tower, sitting by through most of this, immediately started digging a fire trench all around the property to prevent the fire from spreading to adjoining homes. The volunteer firemen, many of them with citizens' hand rades on their automobiles, started calling for trucks to help move the furniture and the trucks took the goods to cover in a neighbor's shed.

Mrs. Cuevas, who had lived in the house for the last 12 years, had packed picnic lunches for herself and veterans after leaving early Sunday morning for the trip to Pica-yune, all of them dressed in their Sunday best. She said she went to the home of each sister except the one who had a telephone and so did not learn of the disaster until she got within a block of home.

A neighbor stopped the car to inform her of it, but since the person frequently kidded about events, she did not take it seriously and never thought to look for smoke. "After all, you don't expect to drive home to a burning house," she said afterwards.

Mrs. Cuevas and her patients spent the night at a nearby motel while she tried to find a place in the immediate area where she can reestablish her Sonnybrook nursing home and take care of her large flower garden and ducks. Her insurance company's representative indicated to her the blaze originated from faulty wiring in the attic.

Twelve new teachers are needed to take care of additional pupils and to replace four not returning for the 1964-65 school term in the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District, superintendent Joe D. McCullough told trustees at a meeting Monday night.

Not returning are Lorena Johnson, June Singletary, Albertine Stinson and Edna Clay. Not returning in the Negro system are Cecelia Rollins, James and Dorothy Payton and Harvey Clay.

Low bid of Bond Construction Co., of Pica-yune was accepted for construction of a six-room addition to North Bay Elementary School. Amount was $44,700.

Other bidders were J. O. Collins, $56,476; W. M. Craig Co., $54,813; L. A. Easterling Co., Inc., $46,200 and C. C. McDonald, Jr., $53,767.

Beat 2 to aid 4

Question of what to do about the petition of W. J. Pippin and 200 residents of Beat 4 to change the line between Beats 2 and 4 was amicably handled Monday by the board of supervisors meeting when Beat 2 supervisor Daph Kellar agreed to use his men and equipment to assist Beat 4 supervisor James Necaise maintain roads in his beat.

Pippin, one of the county's leading farmers, had presented the petition last Monday asking that approximately 8,500 acres in the extreme northwest corner of the county be moved from Beat 4 to Beat 2 because the MTO operation had taken virtually all of Beat 2 whereas Beat 4 had not enough time nor money to properly maintain its roads, each beat receiving the same amount of money.

Beat president R. G. Hubbard, Jr., last week had recommended a map be taken this Monday by the volunteer firemen to show the location of the roads, easements, right of way and the like, Dornblatt predicted actual construction can be under way by July, 1965.

Everyone is invited to take part in the procession which will gather in the Waveland School yard at 2 p.m., but don't forget the rule: any Irishman, temporary or otherwise is subject to fine if caught without an article of green upon his person.

END OF AN ERA - Pews are removed from Logtown Baptist Church as general demolition of town steps up speed as federal government acquires property for buffer zone of Mississippi Test Operations. Loading salvage truck is Sidney Acker who lived all his life on "the point" at Logtown until he moved out recently to Bay St. Louis. Corps of Engineers is aiming at late summer to wrap up property acquisition in whole area in preparation for start of static engine testing in 1965.

They didn't learn

Two weeks ago a special and private bill was introduced in the Mississippi house by Rep. Walter James Phillips which would authorize the Hancock County Board of Supervisors to transfer $50,000 from the road and bridge bond fund to the general fund. This was done at the request of the board of supervisors.

The reason the board sought this authority is simple. It spent more money than it had, and in order to keep on spending it needs more money. Two years ago the board asked for and got authority to transfer $29,000 from the road and bridge bond fund for the same reason.

If this was the first time in a long time that our supervisors had asked for this special legislation, it would be one matter, but when they got this permission two years ago it obviously taught them the wrong lesson—they proceeded to almost double the amount they spent that they didn't have.

And remember, these supervisors levy the normal seven mill maximum for general fund purposes. With proper notice and if 20 per cent of the voters don't force an election, they can levy an additional mill. However, $50,000 is more than three mills would raise.

Even if many of the services paid for out of the general fund must be curtailed or eliminated it seems to us that the only way our supervisors are going to learn to live within their means (and ours) is to refuse permission for this transfer of funds. If you agree with us let Mr. Phillips and Gov. Paul Johnson know your views. Maybe it's not too late.

CONFEDERATES REIGN - Capt. Harold Powell and Joseph Kern, Jr., of Mississippi Greys raise Stars and Bars of Confederacy as Bay-Waveland pilgrimage hostesses in anti-bellum gowns watch at Walter Villere home on Waveland Beach where annual garden tour ended Tuesday.

Pilgrimage draws peak crowd here

Daffodils danced in the bright sunshine Tuesday as more than 200 visitors viewed the seven stops on the Bay-Waveland garden pilgrimage, the largest attendance in the 17 years of the Coast Council of Garden Clubs-sponsored tour.

A trio of riders from Circle D stables—Dee Butler, Marie Martinez and Rusty Smith—greeted guests arriving over the Bay Highway bridge in the morning and directed them to the home of Mrs. Leo W. Seal on North Beach where coffee was served.

Many local residents making the tour, formed a motorcade at the home of Miss Veronica Mohr, local pilgrimage chairman, and Bay Police Chief Latham Garriga led them along the route.

The homes viewed—all of which date back to the early days of Bay St. Louis and housing many interesting furnishings—were those of Mrs. Seal, Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Kimbrough, Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Cox, all in Bay St. Louis, Mr. and Mrs. Ho. and Perrillat and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Villere in Waveland. Pilgrims also viewed the art collection of Robert J. Gelfert at his studio home on Waveland Beach.

A capacity crowd turned out for the luncheon at Haverty's Restaurant where Town and Country Garden Club was in charge.

Bay-Waveland Garden Club was hostess for the tea at the Villere home final stop on the tour where the Hancock County Rebels unit of the Mississippi Greys raised the Confederate flag in a ceremony to close the 1964 pilgrimage here. Taking part were Capt. Harold Powell, Joseph Kern, Jr., Thomas O. Logue and Ray Prosser, Tea hostesses in their anti-bellum gowns stood under the moss draped oaks on the grounds in front of the home as the Stars and Bars were hoisted, a picturesque scene for the visitors.

And a sure sign that spring is almost here and summer not far away was the buzzing of young mosquitos in the out of doors.

The Mississippi Legislature POLITICOS SPEAK

BY RALPH SOWELL JR.

Gov. Paul Johnson's address to a joint session of the Mississippi House of Representatives and Senate was the highlight of the ninth week's session of the Legislature.

As was expected, Johnson asked for an enlarged State Highway Patrol with full police powers as a move to insure that the chief executive will at all times be able to maintain law and order.

Johnson's appeal was based on the fact that his only police power to use in emergency situations is the Mississippi National Guard, which may be federalized and taken from his hands. Such a request for a State Police has not been officially asked for since the days of Gov. Mike Conner, mostly because public opinion has been dubious about giving such "extreme power" to the Governor, for fear of misuse. Johnson pledged to use the authority carefully if it was given.

Other requests made by the Governor were: 1) Renovation of a state park system to create tourist attractions and recreation facilities. 2) The tightening of election laws so all parties and candidates for all public offices play by the same set of rules.

3) To set up a police academy to train all state and local law enforcement personnel. This plank in Johnson's program received its impetus from Deputy Chief A. H. Williams, of the Jackson Police Department, who has stumped the state with the Mississippi Municipal Association, telling the need of the academy.

4) A detention center at the state penitentiary to handle overflows of racial troubles from local jails. 5) The encouragement of wider use of voting machines. They are now used only in Natchez and Adams County.

Over-all, the legislative comment was favorable to the Johnson program. Several solons commented that they would wait and see what the specific bills concerning each program included before basing an opinion.

Wednesday the recommended $336-million budget was presented to the Legislature by a joint fiscal affairs committee and the Budget Commission. The budget will require a minimum of $20 million in "new money" through new or added taxes to balance.

On releasing its report of the spending program, the study committee under Sen. John Clark Love of Kosciusko blamed the "serious financial difficulties" the state faces on the administration of Gov. Ross Barnett, which spent all but $2.8 million of a $35 million general fund balance it inherited.

The committee didn't offer any suggestions on how to raise the extra money needed to finance the budget. The insinuation was that taxes must be raised.

If taxes are raised, it appears inevitable that the state sales tax will be hiked. Last week, a bill was introduced which would place a tax on soft drinks.

On the heels of the financial announcement, Lt. Gov. Carroll Gartin came out strongly for another teacher pay raise as requested by the Mississippi Education Assn. The move would call for another $38 million. The proposed teacher raise was not included in the budget presented by the fiscal legislative committee earlier.

At the end of the ninth week, Gov. Johnson had placed 71 new laws on the statute books and approved repeal of another. Most of the enactments affect counties and cities with most of them authorizing payments to individuals for claims resulting from motor vehicle damages by public vehicles.

Hancock legislators

Rep. Walter J. Phillips of Bay St. Louis was the author of one bill entered in the ninth week of the Mississippi Legislature and one of the co-authors of another.

The bill introduced by Rep. Phillips would authorize and empower two or more counties and municipalities to create and establish a Regional Planning Commission. The other bill would provide increases in public school teachers' salaries effective July 1, 1964.

necessity of such a plan was a step toward final redistricting.

It was the first discussion on total redistricting since the present board took office. Beat 1 supervisor Harlan Dean said he thought a solution would be to divide the county so that each beat would have the same approximate amount of roads while Hubbard called attention to Harrison County where each beat retains its own revenue adding that he has 65 per cent of the people in his district and 75 per cent of revenue.

Question was raised as to what to do about persons living in a beat that had voted for a bond issue and were moved to another beat because of redistricting. Hubbard being of the opinion that these persons would continue to be taxed for the bond issue while persons added to such a beat would not be taxed on that issue.

The board will meet again Monday and Tuesday.

Teen Times

Sports occupied just about everybody's time last weekend. A large group from Hancock County traveled to Jackson Friday, including the St. Joseph's varsity basketball squad in view of opening rounds of the state basketball tournament. North Central, the lone local contender, was eliminated by a score of four points when they met Tupelo in the second of four games in beginning play.

The women's bowling tournament at Tower Lanes also drew quite a crowd while still others took in St. Stanislaus' fourth annual basketball tournament sponsored by the Sidelines Club.

Last Friday was senior day at Pearl River Junior College and the Bay area had the largest number of seniors, 84, attending.

Jo Ann McCullough, Ann Calhoun, Linda Mazarakis, Nody Ladner, Ray Kidd, Betty Smith, Mary Lee Garcia and Kenny Develle are among PRJC freshmen and sophomores looking forward to spending spring holidays which begin Wednesday at home. They return to classes on Monday, the 23rd.

Got well wishes to Johnnie Green who sprained her ankle during SJA basketball intramurals last week.

Larry Smer, Jr., who is attending the University of Alaska while stationed there with the Air Force, will return to the states next November. J. D. Bourgeois will be the next to leave Teen Times.

We hear he's engaged to a lovely young lady from Clermont Harbor.

Sandra Hinson, Bay High graduate, is now working at Goetting in the Crescent City. Ann Bryant, a Southern sophomore who lives in Gulfport, spent Wednesday night with Karen Williams.

Lots of campus romances have gone the way of all flesh but some are still going strong. Among these are Sherry Montgomery and Jimmy Loup, Jeanie Walters and Kenny Kottmann, Ann Calhoun and David Jackson, and Beth Murtagh and Joe Gohmer. Clem Penrose, Jr., is apparently quite seriously interested in Dana Jo Burge.

Henry Heitzman has found a girl who appreciates his musical talent.

Plenty of Money, a mystery-comedy will be presented at PRJC next month. Clem Penrose and Jimmy Loup are in the cast and Jimmy Giametta and Bill Jennings will work behind the scenes.

Carol Monroe was Kathleen Schaefer's weekend guest.

A happy birthday wish goes to Parker Debenport who will be 18 on St. Patrick's day, Mar. 17.

Glenda Kennedy and fiancé, Bill Morgan, who had been engaged several months and planned a late spring or early summer wedding decided not to wait and were wed last weekend.

From past results we've discovered that apparently local juvenile delinquents read this column so we'll comment on a not only stupid, but also a dangerous prank that some brats pulled last Saturday night. At least five fire hydrants were opened in Waveland. Two on Central Avenue, two on Jeff Davis and one on Sears Avenue. Water pressure in the area began to drop and men on the water department truck had to be called out to stop the gushing water. This was a waste of water, added moisture to the already water soaked ground and could have proved most unfortunate had a major fire occurred at the time. Don't have any idea who's guilty of such a childish act, but for heaven's sake don't do it again.

City Echoes

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Morrales will have a St. Joseph's altar in their home on U. S. 90 next Wednesday and Thursday, March 18-19, after 6 p.m.

Miss Louise Armstrong continues to be confined to her home on Union Street with an illness. She has been in poor health since December.

Joseph Marochino will go to Jackson this weekend for a Catholic diocesan laymen's meeting which will take place at Rose Hill, Episcopal camp.

Attending the National Rural Electrification Administration's annual meeting in Dallas, Tex., this week are H. H. Shattuck, manager of Coast Electric Power Assn., and Mississippi director for NREA, and H. L. Becker, office manager.

Directors of the local cooperative slated to go also were Otho Rester, Randall Rester, James Hickman, Virgil Cuevas and Virgil Burge.

Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Henry Capdepon, Jr., and children, Bridget, Henry, III, and John Wesley, left last Wednesday for Cherry Point, N. C., where he will be stationed.

J. V. Moran of Kiln was honored on his 84th birthday with a party given at his home by his daughter Mrs. Earl Neale in Delisle. His grandsons, Lavern and Hugh Moran, entertained him with music. There were 39 guests present. Richard and Tina O'Sheilds, grandchildren of Mr. Moran, also celebrated their birthdays with him.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Schaeffer and children of New Orleans spent the weekend at their cottage on Second Street.

Mrs. J. W. Clark of Knoxville, Tenn., who left Monday for her home after a visit with her son and daughter-in-law.

The Sesquicentennial

Pursuant to a recommendation made by Governor Paul B. Johnson, in his address to a joint session of the state legislature, that Mississippi make plans to observe its 150th Anniversary, a measure is pending to provide funds for making an initial survey.

It should be remembered that Mississippi's Centennial celebration was all set for 1917. The state exhibition was located on the grounds now occupied by the U. S. Veterans' Facility at Gulfport. Several buildings were constructed and occupied, and the Centennial dedicated in a public ceremony by Governor Theodore G. Bilbo.

The interruption of World War I, and the entry of the United States into that conflict, cancelled the celebration and postponed the exposition to some more propitious time. In the spirit of patriotism, the Centennial grounds were converted into a Naval Training Station, and later became the U. S. Veterans' Hospital and Facility.

Whatever is done now to revive this postponed event, as we make ready to hold our 150th Anniversary, it should be located on the Mississippi Gulf Coast, as was originally intended. No plans and no survey should divert Mississippians from keeping faith with the commitments of 1917.

Attractions on the Mississippi Coast, facilities for accommodating and entertaining visitors, the housing of such an exhibition, all combine to make this the logical center for such an exhibition, even if we did not have a prior claim upon it.

Since 1917, the Coast has undergone fantastic development. It is, by far, Mississippi's show place and showcase. Whatever could be preserved from the exhibition as a permanent attraction, to display the state's resources and promote its development, would best serve the interests of Mississippi as a Coast exhibit.

This is the time to make definite plans for Mississippi's Sesquicentennial in 1967, that our dreams of 1917 may become a great reality.

MISSISSIPPI IS MOVING

Mississippi's economic-industrial progress today is making news throughout the nation. Growing numbers of investors, industrialists and business leaders are being attracted by the diverse opportunities offered by Mississippi's wealth of raw materials, agricultural and forestry resources, advantageous locations and sincere, proven workers.

The most outstanding advantage offered by Mississippi today is the expressed attitude of her people toward business, industry and progress. This has been demonstrated time and time again — in the actions of the Legislature, in the community-betterment programs throughout the State, in the willingness of Mississippians to give of themselves, their time, energy and money to make positive contributions to the continued growth and development of their State.

The progress of Mississippi will continue. Mississippi is on the march and Mississippians throughout the State are united in their will to work for a better tomorrow. The railroads serving Mississippi and their 4500 Mississippi employees pledge to do their part to strengthen and to encourage this continued advancement of Mississippi and all Mississippians.

MISSISSIPPI RAILROADS

Readers in this edition may note a rather unusual proclamation issued by Waveland's Mayor Garfield Lader. In the hours of 12 noon until 6 p.m. Waveland will officially celebrate St. Patrick's day. (The 17th being on Tuesday, a real holiday day!) As real Irishmen are truly a scarcity around these parts, his honor is to remedy the deficiency by proclaiming that all living in or entering the town will for these six hours be made temporary 'sons and daughters' of the 'soil' by prefixing their names with a capital O. Consequently we should have O'Laders, O'Bourgeois, O'Villiers, O'Mollers, O'Torgersens and the like joining in the big parade which will assemble at Waveland School at 2 p.m.

Fortunately we are blessed with one can get. There's also Lester Haverly with a genuine Irish name, the O'Briens of Sandy Street and Dee and Paul O'Donnell and perhaps the Lakeshore O'Farrells and O'Tooles of Kin will join in the celebration. Anyway, it sounds like lots of fun and anyone who so desires if invited to take part... just wear a green tie, socks or pick up a clover to stimulate a shamrock and get in the act.

Ailing list keeps growing

Still too many names on the sick list: Bootsie Wolfe was hospitalized Thursday night suffering with severe abdominal pains; Little Steve Trelles was also in the local hospital, he had pneumonia; Jean and Gordon Gleim both had terrible colds as did Ursula Craft. Bert Stieffell spent several days at Ochsner undergoing tests, Wilfred Bordages' ulcer is giving him trouble and former resident, Little Monica Frey, Claire and A. J. S. daughter, is a patient in Mercy Hospital in New Orleans, C. F. (Mitch) Mitchell is having a series of tests in Veteran's Hospital in Biloxi and Alma Manlich will have to give up bowling for a while as she fractured her wrist last week.

The usual rash of childhood diseases are making the rounds again. Little Pam Webb spent last week with her grandparents, Ann and Henry Develle, while recuperating from mumps. Linda and Tommy Kidd's kids had scarlet fever and chickenpox and five of Mable Green's six grandchildren had chicken pox all at the same time!

We're happy to hear that Carolyn Kiefer is steadily improving and is allowed to get around a bit in a wheel chair. John Garza has recovered from his recent heart attack, he was greeting friends on Coleman Avenue last Saturday.

Happy 19th birthday greetings go to Elaine (Mrs. Roy) Walters who was feted at a dinner at her mother, Elaine Davis' Farrar Lane home March 1. Elaine's (Jr.) husband has a new job—he's employed by a meat company.

Sympathy is extended to Polly Fagen—her petnutria, Noodle, pictured in last week's paper passed away. However, in a way we feel congratulations are more in order... we hear there's nothing much meaner than a adult nutria... they're especially fond of attacking dogs, so perhaps she'd be happier with another pet, maybe a baby panther?

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Reeves spent the weekend in their Beach Blvd. home.

On the home front

More new homes going up—Delores and Norton Haas are building (or rather are having built) a split-level on Grosvenor Place and Kiny and Olio Mollere's new home (on Mollere Drive, of course,) is spectacular featuring a family room with two-story ceiling surrounded by a balcony and closed-in swimming pool.

Noleen and Billy Brelant's third child and first daughter, Kerri, arrived at Hancock General Hospital at 11:05 P.M. Thursday, March 5. She was half-grown (almost, anyway) weighing nine pounds and four ounces at birth. The two boys, Clark and Mark, were most disappointed when their new sister wasn't christened Lark!

Mayor Garfield Lader purchased a very sporty blue car last Friday. His wife, Lottie, will need it in the next couple of weeks as she's chairman of the roast beef dinner to be given at St. Clare's parish hall from 11 a.m. 'til the food's gone, on Sunday, March 22. The menu will consist of roast beef, macaroni and cheese, vegetable, salad and hot rolls, all for just one dollar.

Jane (Mrs. Owen) Williams is quite an accomplished artist according to those who attended an informal showing at her North Beach home last Thursday night.

Mrs. Edward LeVasseur returned home Sunday after spending last week visiting her daughter and son-in-law, Jeanine and G. V. McFerrin in Maplewood, La., and son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. D. J. LeVasseur in Breaux Bridge, La. The William Fords left for a visit with friends in Florida last Tuesday.

More grandchildren

Ruth Friserson became a grandmother twice within the last month! Daughter Frances (Mrs. Jerry) Chapman gave birth to her first child, a daughter, Gretchen Ruth, around noon Saturday, March 7, in New Orleans. Fortunately she arrived about four weeks early as she weighed six pounds, six ounces prenatally... as term she'd have been a monster. Another daughter, Ruth Ellen (Mrs. Ludwig) Moran presented her with a granddaughter, Rachel Ellen on Feb. 15. It was the Morans' first daughter, their other three being boys.

Charlie Ferry has the most spectacular display of tulips.

hyacinths, crocus, jonquills and a few other exotic bulb plants that we've seen this spring. Charlie claims the garden but we're told that it was sort of a family project.

Muriel Gilman blew in to Waveland Monday... she leaves Tuesday for Chicago where she is operating an interior decorating shop.

Waiting time

Dianne and Gary Karl are among expectant parents. Their second is due in about three months. Grandpa Charlie Dickson will have to buy a larger wallet to hold all the pictures when the new baby arrives.

Rose Richmond is up and about again after being seriously ill for over two months. Joy (Mrs. Donald) Landry is walking on air... she received her realtor's license two weeks ago and sold her first house on Saturday.

Another newcomer, Homer Ringo, is in line for a warm welcome to Waveland. He has purchased Jeanne and Fred Lister's home on Jeff Davis. Jeanne and Fred won't desert us however... they're going to build a camp on the river.

Little Terri Degan, age eight, is in Hancock General Hospital recovering from pneumonia. The Degans moved here from Detroit and are making their home on Forest Avenue in Clermont Harbor.

Rev. Bertrand Eckert has returned to his Central Ave. home after another of his around the world cruises. His ship, the Transindia, which draws over 34 feet of water was written up in a Bermuda paper as being the deepest ship ever to sail into the Bermuda Channel... deeper even than the Queen.

The person has a brand new granddaughter, but she's so new (Cont. on Page 6-B.)

Adding up the year

PROGRESS

Transmission lines... electric facilities and offices... substations... they add up to progress with a capital "P".

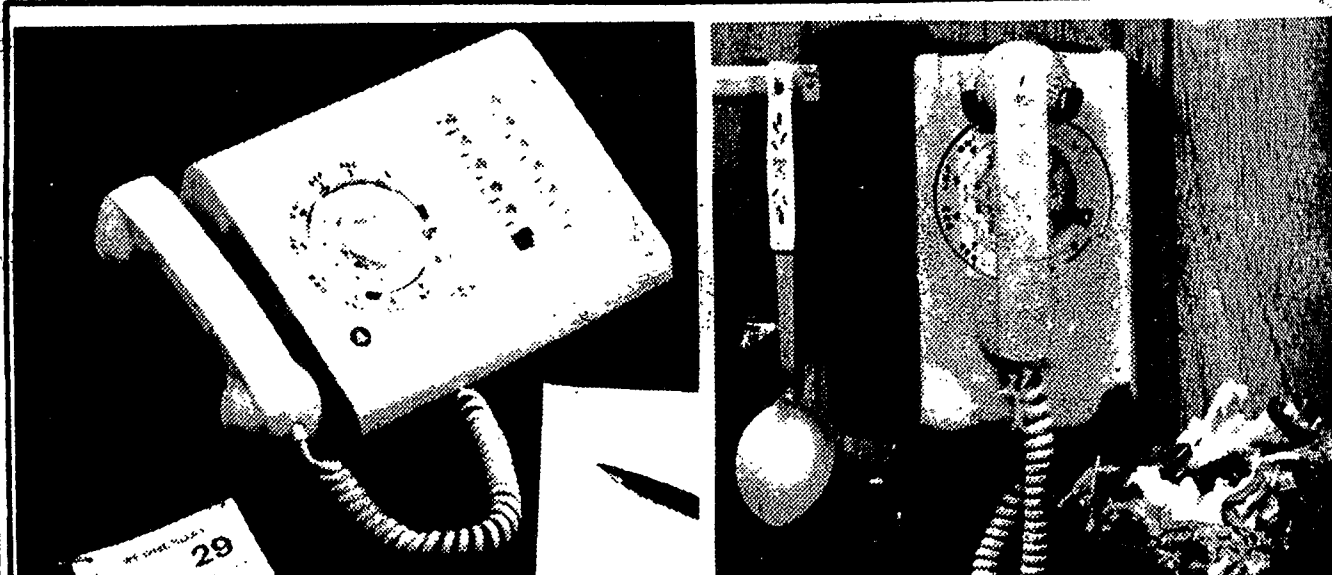

During 1963 Mississippi Power Company spent a record $8.7 million for construction. This year the company has budgeted more than twice that amount—$21.2 million. This amounts to about $57,000 for every day in the year.

What does this mean for the area we serve? It means more money added to the economy by the purchase of materials. It means new payrolls created by the construction. And it means more tax dollars for state and local governments—because as assets of an investor-owned company, these new facilities, when completed, will be fully taxed.

Research, planning, and building ahead. It's our way of making certain that there will always be plenty of power in your future.

What happens to your wastes?

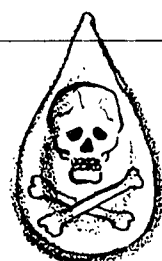

The answer may well shock you.

Unless your community owns a sewage treatment plant, the sewers empty directly into the nearest stream (or lake or bay). Here the sewage is free to spread its contamination far and wide. Day after day the foulest wastes of our homes—the human excrement, wash water, sink garbage, disease germs—and in many towns, the factory wastes—all are poured into our public waters.

When you pull that plug

Untreated sewage
menaces our health

Untreated sewage ruins our natural resources

Untreated sewage
property values

A community which pollutes the public waters endangers itself and its neighbors. Heroic work by the water department makes the treated drinking water safe. But private wells may be infected by contaminated underground water supplies. Typhoid, dysentery, cholera, infantile paralysis, and other diseases can be harbored in the water-borne sewage. Streams may carry disease germs from town to town. Youngsters may swim in water that looks sparkling and clear yet actually conceals deadly bacteria.

Fishing—for sport or livelihood—is ruined. Sewage in the water reduces oxygen content so low that fish can't live. Ducks and other waterfowl dwindle in number, because they can't find enough marine life for food. Swimming is dangerous, and boating unpleasant. Beaches are littered from scum and floating refuse. Flies thrive. Industries can't find enough clean water for their operations.—Yet clean water is one of the greatest natural resources any nation can own.

The bad odors and unpleasant deposits along streams or waterfronts repel potential home buyers. Valuable beaches must be closed. Farmers find their land depreciating in value because the polluted water is no longer ideal for livestock and irrigation. Industries look elsewhere to find sites that offer cleaner water for their use. Communities downstream are harmed when cities upstream make the stream an open sewer. Some cities have faced lawsuits, injunctions, and damaging publicity because of this fact.

But the remedy is within our reach:

A SEWAGE TREATMENT LAGOON

The purpose of any sewage treatment is to alter the character of sewage so that it may be disposed of without being a nuisance or health menace. Practically all modern methods of treatment, including lagoons, accomplish this by bacterial action. Since bacterial action without oxygen results in the release of hydrogen sulphide and other foul-smelling gases, it is necessary to provide oxygen if a nuisance is to be prevented.

The sewage treating lagoon obtains its oxygen through a complicated biological interchange. Algae, a low form of plant life containing chlorophyll, have the characteristic of releasing oxygen when they digest their food. For food they require, among other things, carbon dioxide and nitrates. When the aerobic bacteria in raw sewage have oxygen, they produce carbon dioxide and nitrates.

Thus, the bacteria convert the sewage into products which the algae can use for food, while the algae produce the oxygen which the bacteria need. The only equipment needed is a pond of suitable area and depth with properly designed inlets and overflows.

A community doesn't have to be large to have sewage treatment facilities. The Town of Byhalia, Mississippi, with only 674 citizens, recently voted to build a sewage lagoon. A community doesn't have to be wealthy, either. Sewage treatment costs far less per family than other public utilities such as water, electricity, gas, or telephone.

On Main Street

Those spring blossoms in Dot (Mrs. Dan) Russell's yard aren't artificial, a little though they're almost too lovely to be real. The Hardin Shattucks also have a spectacular camellia display in their yard. While still on Main Street, so to speak, we'll commend Nellus Favre on the removal of his Christmas display before Easter!

Newlyweds Jeralyn and Buddie Wilson called home Monday night and informed Jeralyn's parents, Myrtle and R. F. Jones, and Buddie's grandmother, Lottie Lachner, that they are doing fine in San Diego and that Buddie has been assigned to another Marine Corps school which means that he will remain in the States for at least a year.

The weatherman must have been in a good humor Tuesday as he gave local and visiting garden tourists a perfect day in which to enjoy the pilgrimage. An enormous crowd turned out and although Haverly's had only 84 reservations approximately 200 hungry females (and a few males) stormed the restaurant.

Bess Wagner has recently been under the weather... she too is a cold victim.

Ann Langley took advantage of a day off Saturday to shop for a wedding dress... but don't get the wrong idea, it's a bridesmaid's dress for a friend's wedding!

Gripe corner

This week it's inadequate fore-warning of the condition of Old Spanish Trail between Washington Street and almost to Nicholson Avenue. There are a few "men working" signs, but nothing to indicate that a strip of pavement at least five feet wide and six to eight inches deep has been dug up on the most dangerous curve on the road near Citizen St. where there have already been several fatalities. The thoroughfare is in such a mess our suggestion is to close it to all traffic except residents until they finish what ever it is they are doing to it!

Welcome to Waveland Mr. and Mrs. John Rosch who recently rented the Briere home at 824 Beach Blvd.

SIGHTS AND SOUNDS A- LONG THE WAY: A small grey squirrel scampering across Main Street utterly unimpressed by the traffic; tiny yellow-green leaves sprouting on willow trees and the water, for so long pale and shallow, now brown and foam covered as it lashes the seawall and the sound of slapping waves and the wind, not a northerly wall, but blustery, with the smell and feel of spring in every gust!

Teen Road-E-O set April 11 by Bay Jaycees

First teen-age safe driving Road-E-O to be conducted by the Bay St. Louis Jaycees is set for April 11 on the grounds of Our Lady of the Gulf Parish School. Al McGarry, local chairman, announced this week.

The program, now in its 12th year of national Jaycee sponsorship, is designed to instill in teen-agers proper driving knowledge, attitudes and skills through composition. It consists of a written test of driving knowledge and slow driving through a challenging obstacle course which tests straight driving turning, back, stopping and parking.

Certificates will be given all local participants and awards will go to the top three. The local winner will compete in the state Road-E-O, winner of which goes to the national contest in Washington, D. C. Mississippi's entry last year won the $200 sportsmanship scholarship.

Loiacano ponders offer

J. B. Loiacano, star linebacker at Mississippi State and St. Stanislaus graduate, is considering several professional football offers and expects to sign within two weeks, he said Tuesday.

Loiacano, a senior at State Smith takes part in European duty

Attainment day plans occupy 4-H club meets

Three 4-H Clubs met during the first week of March with Mrs. Joseph Hughes, home demonstration agent, when plans for county attainment day on April 3 were discussed.

Ellen Murphy presided at the Waveland group's meeting when the 4-H prayer was read and members sang the 4-H clover song. A report was on the success of the recent toothbrush sale. Projects for county attainment day were discussed and Mrs. Charles Faust and Mrs. R. Brewer assisted with the meeting.

Prizes were presented in the poultry contest to Dianne Kurtz, Vicki Scharf and Mary Shattuck when North Bay seventh grade club met March 3. Betty Joe Hughes presided and Janie Languirand gave the devotional. Janet Kidd, secretary, read the minutes and called the roll.

Mrs. Eunice Casanova, faculty sponsor, was welcomed to the meeting and Mrs. Hughes gave a demonstration on judging school dresses. The recreation leader read the 4-H pledge to dismiss the meeting.

Ford is the BIG WINNER in the race for quality

Total performance has carried Ford to win after win in competition. But this is only part of the proof that Ford is the best built car in its field.

More strength in the frame. Ford has 69 pounds more steel in the frame than America's other best selling car. More smoothness, steadiness, strength.

More insulation. Ford has a thick half-inch layer of fiberglass at the roof panel—compared with its rival's thin felt liner. More insulation below and around you, too—for a more comfortable, quieter ride.

Extensive rustproofing. Ford protects critical areas with rust-resistant galvanized steel. Wheel covers are stainless steel. Mufflers are completely aluminized.

More service-saving features. Only Ford offers Twice-a-Year (or 6000-mile) Maintenance—less routine servicing than any other car in its class.
